

Golden Touch

Golden Girl Rue McClanahan could become a Harlem hottie.

McClanahan – who will soon be starring in “My First Five Husbands,” her own one-woman autobiographical Broadway show — recently visited the neighborhood’s new Windowson123 condo development.

The actress who played flirty Blanche Devereaux on “The Golden Girls” showed up at a rooftop party for the two-building development and also toured some of the larger apartments. McClanahan has been looking for a Harlem home with her son, actor Mark Bish. Windowson123 includes a 26-unit building at 117 W.123rd St., where the condos range from $549,000 one-bedrooms to $1,560,000 for a 1,884-square-foot three-bedroom with nearly 500 square feet of private terraces. The second building, at 129 West 123rd Str., has eight full-floor, keyed-elevator lofts, with two-bedrooms starting at $980,000.